TEN BLACK HAND
SUSPECTS CAUGHT IN DRAGNET

Prisoners Closely Guarded in Jails of Various Cities in Ohio, as Result of Crusade Led by Postal Authorities Against Black Hand and Mafia Schemers.

(Special from United Press.)

Italians and Sicilians caught in dragnet set for Black Hand and Mafia suspects in Ohio: Anton Nuss, Cleveland; Joseph Nuss, Cleveland; Antonio Vicaria, Denison; August Marfil, Denison; Collozero Vicario, Bellefontaine; Salvatore Lina, Marion; Salvatore Rizzo, Marion; Joseph Bataglia, Marion; Tony Bichiero, Columbus; Salvatore Vental, Columbus.

Cleveland, June 10.—Ten Italians and Sicilians are to-day closely guarded in jails of cities in the various sections of the state as the result of a crusade led by the post office authorities against the perpetrators of Black Hand and Mafia schemes of extortion and intimidation throughout Ohio. Two arrests were made at Cleveland last night when the Nuss brothers, peddlers, fell into the clutches of the post office authorities and the Pinkerton men. The confiscation of a mass of correspondence led to the arrest and it would seem as though the Buckeye state was the clearing house for Black Hand schemes.

While there is yet no evidence to convict the prisoners with the plot to kill Petrosino, the post office inspectors would be surprised at nothing so startling have the revelations of the last few days been. From Canada to Mexico the operations of the Ohio gang are shown to have been of an extensive nature. The officials are convinced their chase has only begun. It is expected that the belief that the Black Hand and Mafia are myths will be dispelled when the prisoners are brought to trial.

The confiscated letters in the hands of the post office authorities, the inspectors claim, would convince the most skeptical persons that both societies are thoroughly organized and operate along well defined plans with but one purpose in view. The letters so far examined are from members of the societies in Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Chicago, addressed to victims in Cincinnati and Columbus. They bear the same emblems, stamped upon the same water marked paper and written apparently by the same person. The plan in each case seems intentional. In the first instance a threatening letter is sent to the victim from an Ohio town. This threat is to kill or dynamite the man's house and a second letter is sent from Pittsburgh and finally another from Chicago. Money is thus extorted and distributed among members of the gang during meetings held in some Ohio town. According to the postal authorities a distribution of booty was made at Bellefontaine a few weeks ago and within a few hours $2,000 was sent to Italy through the mails.

Chief A. F. Holmes of the Ohio department is directing the state-wide crusade. He is assisted by Inspectors Hutchins, W. L. Day, United States District Attorney, Toledo, and others. Further conferences are being held at the post office to-day and while the inspectors will not give out any definite decision it is understood that more arrests will be made in Cleveland.

New York, June 10.—The local police and secret service men say to-day that the arrest of the alleged Black Hand operators in a number of Ohio cities have given a clue to the murder of Detective Petrosino, as it was thought they would. Several officers who questioned the Ohio prisoners believe they know nothing about the murder.

BRIGHAM'S SANITY
BEING QUESTIONED

New Haven, June 10.—Revelations as to the stock investments of Frederick H. Brigham, bookkeeper of the Merchants' National Bank under arrest for alleged shortage, today caused the detectives and bank officials to set on foot an investigation as to who is responsible and under what circumstances Brigham took his remarkable figure in the stock market. While the face value of the securities seized by the detectives from Brigham's private safe deposit box in the New Haven Trust Company is about $70,000, information coming in has gradually reduced the actual value to it is said, less than $10,000. None of the stocks are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. But two are New York current stock. Among the others are Boston and Salt Lake City mining Exchange stocks. The line of investment is so varied and unusual for a man in Brigham's position that his mental capacity is now being questioned. Dr. N. J. Adams, the family physician, today said that to his knowledge Brigham was sane and mentally capable. The officials of the bank held an all night conference and announced today that it might be several days before a complete statement as to the extent of Brigham's operations can be made. They plainly indicate that the attitude of Brigham and his attorney, who are absolutely man on every feature of the affair, has dissipated any chances of leniency should the charges against Brigham be proven.

DIVING HORSES
AT STEEPLECHASE

Wonderful Performance Secured by Capt. Boyton to be Free to Patrons of Island.

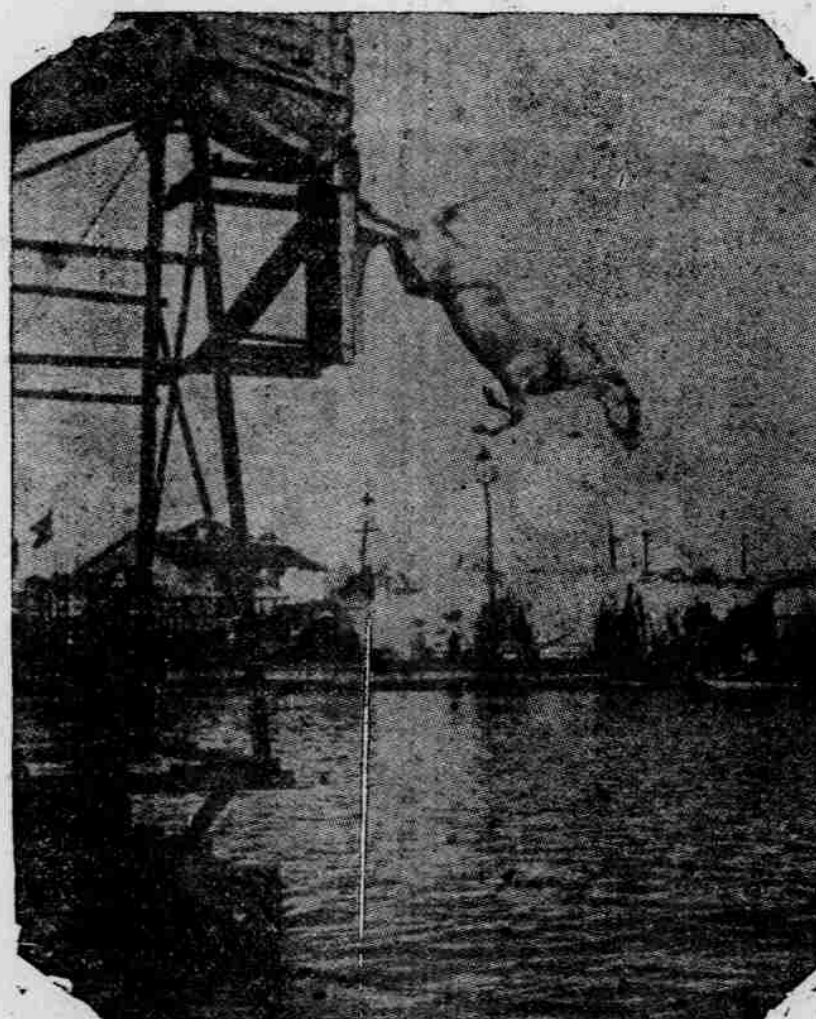

The famous high diving horses, "King" and "Queen," after a triumphant tour of the Orient, will open an engagement at Steeplechase Island next Sunday in a free outdoor performance that is thrilling, interesting and a distinctly novel act. In the afternoon and again in the evening the handsome horses will dive into the water from an improvised platform, a distance of 50 feet in height.

It is an animal act that created a sensation in Europe and caused King Edward, for whom a special performance was given, to remark that it was the most marvelous animal act he had ever witnessed. The horses were trained by Prof. George F. Holway, of Iowa, have never been harassed and are as attractive specimens of horsemanship as can be found anywhere.

They ascend the ladderlike chute of their own accord and when they get to the top they brace themselves in a secure position so as to be certain of their foothold before they leap. Then they plant their forefeet in rigid position and rise about three feet in the air off the platform. As soon as the descent is being made they straighten out their forelegs and push their noses forward, striking the water in the same attitude as a man in diving. The wonderful part of the act is that the horses do not jump into the water but actually dive. During the time that elapses between the dive and the striking of the water the spectators stand breathless with astonishment and repressed excitement. The horses disappear under the water, quickly come to the surface again and swim ashore.

The island opens for the season Sunday and under the new ticket arrangement whereby the admission fee is reduced in amusements, the admission to the resort is virtually free. The diving horses arrived in this city today and excited admiration by all who saw them. The act will be given afternoon and evening daily until further notice.

1138 TO 1144 MAIN ST.REV. DR. HALE
CHAPLAIN OF
SENATE DIESFamous Literature Passes Away This Morning at His Home in Roxbury,
District of Boston, After Brief Illness at Ripe Age of 87—Graduated from Harvard 70 Years Ago.

(Special from United Press.)

Boston, June 10.—Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the United States Senate, died this morning at 3 o'clock at his home in the Roxbury district of Boston. He was up and about as usual until a few days ago and spoke at the Unitarian University anniversary meeting two weeks ago.

Heart failure was the cause of Dr. Hale's death. He had been ailing for the last two or three weeks and declined gradually until two or three days ago when fears really began to be entertained. The end came suddenly this morning.

Dr. Hale's sister, Miss Susan Hale, his physician, Dr. Temple, and a number of personal friends were at the bedside when the venerable chaplain of the Senate breathed his last. The end came peacefully and there was no struggle at dissolution. Dr. Hale simply passed away as one falls asleep.

Edward Everett Hale was born in Boston, April 3, 1822, and was one of the group of literary men and teachers that have made that city famous. He graduated from Harvard 70 years ago. Dartmouth and other colleges conferred honorary degrees upon him. Mr. Hale founded the Unitarian University in 1846, his first church being the Church of the Divinity in Worcester. He was married to Nattley Baldwin Perkins in 1852.

The writings of Mr. Hale cover a wide range. He wrote several volumes of children's stories and stories for young men. "The Man Without a Country," "In His Name," and "The Ingraham Papers" are among his best known works. Mr. Hale was prominent at one time in the Chautauquan movement and Lend-a-Hand Club. He was also connected in an editorial way with numerous newspapers and magazines.

Washington, June 10.—President Taft sent a message of sympathy to the widow of the late Dr. Edward Everett Hale at Roxbury this morning upon learning of the death of the noted preacher.

Boston, June 10.—Following the announcement of Dr. Hale's death today Governor Draper of Massachusetts issued a statement from the State House, as follows:

"I am very sorry to hear of Dr. Edward Everett Hale's death. He has occupied a very prominent position in Massachusetts for many years and the place left vacant by his death will never be filled. As author, preacher and citizen he represented our highest type. He has done goodness and was broad minded in his judgment of all creeds. Massachusetts and the Nation suffer a great loss in his death."

FIRE DRIVES
SIXTY GUESTS
FROM HOTEL

(Special from United Press.)

Spring Lake, N. J., June 10.—Sixty guests of The Breakers, hotel, were left shelterless and lightly clad here early today by a fire which totally destroyed the big hostelry. Many of the guests narrowly escaped death in the flames. Mrs. Arthur Thompson of New York was carried from the third floor of the blazing building by hotel attendants. Most of the guests left their rooms in their night clothes. Two daughters of Charles Elliott, also of New York, were trapped in their room by the flames and were saved by two bellboys who dashed through the fire and carried them to the beach.

The loss to the hotel is estimated at about $200,000. The fire spread to several cottages in the vicinity which were damaged to the extent of $100,000.
